

Introduction to Oral History

Interested in oral history? This FREE half-day WORKSHOP is a great place to begin!

Oral History is a powerful tool to understand your family stories and community history. This focused introduction to the art and craft of oral history will cover the nuts and bolts of executing a successful oral history project. Participants will learn how to prepare for, conduct, and transcribe interviews, as well as find out about funding for oral history projects in Utah.

When: May 25, 2017 from 1:00-4:00pm

Where: Dixie State University Library Room 325
225 South University Avenue, St George, UT 84770

Cost: Free, but registration is requested
RSVP by contacting Megan van Frank at Utah Humanities vanfrank@utahhumanities.org or 801.359.9670.

Workshop presented jointly by Utah Humanities and the Utah Division of State History in partnership with the Dixie State University Library Special Collections & Archives.
