Welcome,

We are so grateful that you are a friend of Utah Humanities! Whether you’re a program partner, participant, donor, grantee, or public official, you play a critical role in our work. Our free programs happen because of the generosity of the people, companies, organizations, and government bodies that support our mission.

We hope you will enjoy this look back into 2019 and the impactful work we were able to do together. We collaborated with 284 partners to present 1,192 events, including the 22nd annual Utah Humanities Book Festival, college-level humanities courses for high school students and adults that inspired the pursuit of higher education, critical capacity-building workshops for museums, community conversations that brought diverse perspectives together, and grant funding for local humanities projects throughout the state.

We saw many changes in 2019. We said goodbye to three staff members, Michael McLane, Shianne Gray, and Karissa Lago, and welcomed Willy Palomo, Chloe Della Costa, and James Stolhand to the UH family. We were saddened by the passing of Robert “Archie” Archuleta, former UH board member and friend. Archie was a tireless force for good in Utah, and his kindness and passion touched many as he amplified the voices of those who are often unheard.

Thank you for your support as we strive to improve communities through active engagement in the humanities!

Randy Williams, Board Chair  Jodi Graham, Executive Director
Improving Communities Through the Humanities

Our mission revolves around offering first-hand, engaging humanities experiences. Our events are direct, personal opportunities to identify with literature, to understand local and national heritage, and to share viewpoints in civil conversations…all of which serve to strengthen the fabric of our personal and community relationships. We offer connection, context, and courage.

Partnerships that Put Humanities Ideas into Action

Our partnerships extend our reach and deepen our work. In fact, everything we do at Utah Humanities is in collaboration with other organizations. Aligning with cultural, educational, professional, and service organizations is essential to fulfilling our mission, and partnering with us can result in measurable community improvement.

Our statewide work at Utah Humanities is divided into Centers, each of which has a specific humanities focus and associated programs. It is through our Centers that we partner with Utah organizations to improve communities through the humanities. Each center is highlighted in this report:

- CENTER FOR THE BOOK
- CENTER FOR COMMUNITY HERITAGE
- CENTER FOR EDUCATIONAL ACCESS
- CENTER FOR LOCAL INITIATIVES
- SPECIAL PROJECTS

Total in-person audience of 151,463
Total media/web audience of 3,292,778
Total combined events: 1,192 (in-person & multimedia events)
Total combined audience: 3,444,074
The Center for the Book fosters a love of reading and of books as well as the exploration of contemporary issues through literature.

Utah Humanities is the home of the Utah Center for the Book. As the state affiliate of the National Center for the Book at the Library of Congress, UH’s Center for the Book promotes public interest in books, reading, authorship, and libraries throughout the state.

193 Book Festival events with 21,847 attendees
65 affiliate events, 9,340 attendees
Our 22nd annual Utah Humanities Book Festival reached record audiences. A highly visible signature event since 1998, this fall festival brings together readers, writers, and book artists to celebrate books, ideas, and the resulting conversations. This year’s participants enjoyed a wide variety of activities statewide, and through increasingly effective collaborations and partnerships, we served over 13,000 people during September and October.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

The festival featured 200+ events in 22 communities across the state, including Salt Lake City, Ogden, Orem, Cedar City, Logan, Brigham City, Moab, Helper, Escalante, Boulder, St. George, Green River, Park City, Kearns, West Valley, and more.

Attendance grew to over 13,000 and with thousands more reached through author interviews on two Utah public radio stations.

The festival featured 150+ authors, including US Poet Laureate Robert Hass, Pulitzer Prize winner Richard Powers, and many other award-winning authors, such as Dan O’Brien, James McLaughlin, Pam Houston, Brian Evenson, Robin Wall Kimmerer, Paisley Rekdal, Ada Limón, Javier Zamora, Terry Tempest Williams, William Kamkwamba, and many more.

Several authors presented in multiple communities during their stay in Utah.

We collaborated with many new community partners such as the Glendale Branch of the Salt Lake Public Library, the University of Utah Dream Center, Watch Tower Coffee and Comics, Mestizo’s Arts and Activism, Good Company Theater, Deseret Hive Supply, Dixie State University Multicultural and Inclusion Center, and Moab Pride.

We included year-long partners, such as The Bee, Coyote Stories, and Books & Bridges, to highlight their programs during the Book Festival.

The Book Festival received strong media coverage with in Catalyst Magazine including a variety of features and interviews with Book Festival authors. The Festival director and Book Festival authors were also featured on numerous radio shows, including KRCL’s RadioActive and KSL.

“When a community can laugh together (or sigh or moan or even say Yuk!) then, in this divided time, it’s a win win. We need to gather in a safe place to hear and experience our human stories that are not tied to a particular religious or political affiliation.”

LITERARY EVENTS

The Library of Congress-designated Center for the Book offers year-round literary opportunities for partner organizations and their audiences around the state. A vibrant variety of events offer audiences opportunities to approach books and literature as a more dynamic part of the cultural landscape.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- We collaborated on 65 programs in 13 communities, including Salt Lake, West Jordan, Provo, Logan, Kamas, Bountiful, Ephraim, Moab, Cedar City, Ivins, Taylorsville, Escalante, and Ogden.
- We focused on youth through programs such as Brian Floca’s visits to Kamas and Ogden, and the Copper Hills poetry workshops, both of which drew enormous crowds. Our work with youth also included sustained programming, such as our poetry slam team coaching at Kearns High School.
- The Cache County Drug Court Recovery Book Group, in partnership with UH board member Randy Williams, has helped us reach an entirely new audience. The program continues to be a resounding success, generating interest from other counties in the state.
- We continued to work with Books & Bridges, providing discussions of classical literature and history and examining their connections to contemporary issues.
- We collaborated with 7 new partners focused primarily on historically marginalized ethnic communities, including Existimos, The Silenced American, Unidad Inmigrante, Snacks “n” More, Writers for Migrant Justice, The Mayor’s Office for New Americans, and Welcoming America’s Welcoming Week.
- Our events included New York Times Bestselling Authors Hanif Abdurraqib, Thomas Clavin, Kevin Fedarko, and Brian Floca.
- Our work with Coyote Tales and The Bee allowed us to tap into new audiences, who were unfamiliar with the work of UH.

“The Q&A with the filmmaker, local writers, and activists created the space to for me to process unspoken parts of my family history as a Central American. It was helpful to hear the historical contexts and personal narratives that make up this tense political issue.”

HERITAGE WORKSHOPS

The work of preserving and sharing our Utah heritage is more readily accomplished by institutions that are clear-eyed about their mission, operationally robust, and skilled in curatorial and educational practice. Our Heritage Workshops are a hands-on investment in the preservation of Utah’s heritage by actively supporting the organizations that undertake this vital work.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Standards and Excellence Program for History Organizations

- We partnered with the Utah Division of Arts & Museums and Utah Division of State History to complete the first year of the 2-year StEPs-UT pilot, which tackles standards across six areas of practice.
- We developed curriculum, delivered monthly training, and supported mentored on-site projects in the areas of Management, Audience, and Stewardship of Collections.
- StEPs-UT facilitates a community of practice among seven organizations in Cache, Weber, Salt Lake, Summit, and Uintah counties. Three of them presented at the Utah Museums Association annual meeting about their work to strengthen their institutions. Audience response was universally enthusiastic, with one person calling it “Probably one of the BEST and most helpful sessions of the conference!”

Regional Heritage Stewardship Program

- We partnered with the Conservation Center for Art & Historic Artifacts in Philadelphia and the Utah Division of Arts & Museums to deliver the Regional Heritage Stewardship Program, bringing vital preservation services to rural areas with limited access to conservators and preservation expertise.
- Eight workshops in St George, Green River, and Cortez (CO) served 22 collecting organizations in rural Utah, plus another 5 from the wider Intermountain region. Utahns came from Duchesne, Emery, Grand, Iron, Kane, Millard, San Juan, Sanpete, and Washington counties. Monthly webinars maintained momentum and served rural audiences nationally.
MUSEUM ON MAIN STREET

We bring the Smithsonian Institution's Museum on Main Street (MoMS) to Utah as a way to strengthen cultural organizations and serve Utahns with relevant, community-based programs. As the state catalyst for MoMS, our strategic role is to convene and organize all of the components. But the real magic happens through the genuine collaboration among our national, state, and local partners. These relationships—and the transformative work we do together—result in stronger communities and a more connected Utah. Planning is underway for the next MoMS exhibition tour, Water|Ways, set to launch in 2020.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Through a competitive process, we selected five communities to host Water|Ways:

- John Wesley Powell River History Museum in Green River
- Fremont Indian State Park in Sevier
- Kanab Heritage House in partnership with Kanab Heritage Museum
- Swaner Preserve and EcoCenter in Park City
- Bear River Heritage Area in Logan in partnership with Hyrum City Museum

We hosted a 2-day Orientation workshop for the newly-selected Water|Ways host sites, rolled out with help from the Smithsonian, Utah Museum of Fine Arts, and University of Utah’s American West Center.

Due to the immense interest in the critical topic of water, we convened partners to collaborate on companion water-related efforts to span the state, such as H2O Today, a related Smithsonian exhibition, and Stories: YES, a series of youth digital projects.

We continued to air the Beehive Archive radio show on partner stations UPR and KCPW to an annual audience of 3.1 million. Online episodes of the Beehive Archive received 52,278 views, 56% of which were new users.

“We've planned a variety of local events that feature the history and heritage of our own communities. The rare opportunity of hosting the Smithsonian gives us an added chance to shine.”

CLEMENTE COURSE IN THE HUMANITIES
VENTURE COURSE IN THE HUMANITIES

Clemente: 270 events, 5,811 attendees
Venture: 115 events, 1,156 attendees
When the bell rings at East and West High Schools, Clemente students pass from one class into an entirely new world. Clemente, a four-quarter, interdisciplinary college-level humanities course, taught by college faculty along with accomplished undergraduates, helps students develop higher level thinking skills and the confidence to succeed in college. Designed specifically for students from communities historically excluded from higher education, Clemente demonstrates the power of the humanities to improve lives.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Between East High and West High, 75 Clemente students registered for the 2019-2020 School year.
- Utah’s Clemente course was included, along with two other youth programs in Chicago and Portland, in a Teagle Foundation planning grant awarded to the National Clemente Course. This collaborative process convened representatives from the other youth Clemente courses to share, articulate, discover, and define best practices.
- West High Clemente students submitted written and visual works completed in the Clemente literature section to Salt Lake Community College’s literature magazine, Community Anthology. All 16 students had their work accepted.
- We completed a full pilot year of Clemente 2 at West High School. Clemente 2 allows students who have finished their initial Clemente course to continue on to a second year and earn college credit.
- All current academic partners—Westminster College, the University of Utah Honors College, Salt Lake Community College, the University of Utah College of Humanities, East High School, and West High School—have committed to another year of support for the Clemente program.
- We continue to have discussions exploring the possibility of taking Clemente to Provo and Ogden.

“In this class, everyone’s voice matters and we don’t have to feel judged by anyone when we express ourselves. Even when we don’t want to talk, the professors encourage and motivate us to say something.”

— 2018-2019 East High Clemente student
VENTURE COURSE

As a flagship Utah Humanities program, Venture has been a life-changing experience for the past 14 years. It’s a two-semester, college-level humanities course offered free of charge to adults living on low incomes. The course has long been a catalyst for meaningful re-direction and an opportunity to re-ignite life-long dreams. Approximately 50-70% of Venture students are from ethnic minorities, and other groups who are often excluded by higher education. As a measure of hope and a recognition of hard work, our Venture university partners encourage successful Venture alumni to matriculate at their campuses.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Venture programs offered graduations at Weber State and Southern Utah University with more than 80% of enrolled students completing the course.
- One of our university partners, Southern Utah University, has begun a process to restructure elements of the Venture curriculum to emphasis an interdisciplinary and project-based approach. The intention behind this is so students will transform meaningful insights and experiences gleaned from immersion in the humanities into tangible impact on their communities. This highly engaging, interdisciplinary education approach fosters critical thinking, creative, intercultural, and interpersonal skills that prepare students to succeed in college and life, as well as equip them to respond to, and participate in, democracy.
- Students actively engaged in class discussions and vigorous debate by sharing their writing with their peers and instructors.
- Venture has brought marginalized ethnic minorities into more active public roles and participation at a university level.
- Through Venture, we have helped academic partners expand the diversity of their student bodies and their faculty’s understanding of the needs of nontraditional students.
- Venture served two geographic regions of the state, specifically Weber State University area in Ogden and Southern Utah University area in Cedar City.

“Venture has given me hope and now I am trying even harder to go to college. I feel like I am more open to new ideas and different cultures. I think that I am ready for the next step, and thanks to Venture, I feel more prepared. It is an experience I will never forget because it has opened doors for me. Thank you!”

COMMUNITY CONVERSATIONS

Effective conversation combined with genuine listening is transformative, and using the humanities as a framework for structuring challenging discussions adds essential depth. Identifying the root of differences while stretching to surpass them can result in authentic growth, and our conversations generate options, insight, and change.

This year’s conversations convened diverse groups around essential, ever-meaningful topics.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- We partnered with The Village Square Utah to present Exploring Next Door Strangers with podcaster Andrea Smardon. The podcast explores finding connection in a time of division.
- We joined with Utah Conversations for a 6-month long discussion series on various topics including race, money in politics, media literacy, and righteousness in relationships. We were successful in recruiting participants from rural, Native American, Latinx, African American, immigrant, and refugee populations.
- We collaborated with Living Room Conversations and CourtWatch for a conversation on Tapping into the Power of Community in Utah County. CourtWatch, an extension of the Utah Coalition Against Sexual Assault, is a data-driven pilot program designed to be a neutral bridge between the judicial system and sexual assault victims.
- We partnered with the Mountain Mediation Center in Summit County, and used our Race and Diversity toolkit, to host a conversation on Restorative Justice. We also committed to a year-long series of 12 conversations focusing on seasonal workers, college students, and seniors in Summit County.
- We worked with the Cache Refugee and Immigrant Center to host a conversation on the concept of “Home.”
- We collaborated with The Golden Rule Project for a year-long conversation series of events with retired seniors, high school youth, and refugee women.

“Having the courage to participate and open up in a facilitated conversation, especially one that challenged my personal perspectives, was invigorating and cathartic. I would even say that it felt therapeutic. I felt more connected and alive.”

NEH Grant Writing Workshop and Visit from NEH Chairman
We partnered with Southern Utah University to present an NEH Grant Writing Workshop in Cedar City. We were honored to host special guests Congressman Chris Stewart and NEH Chairman Jon Parrish Peede. In addition, we were able to coordinate 12 public events throughout the state for the NEH Chairman to meet with local partners and community members.

Native American Gathering with Pipe Bearer Arvol Looking Horse
We partnered with the Adopt A Native American Elder program and the Urban Indian Center, to bring generations together in discussions of historical, cultural, and current topics important to Native American tribal members living in Utah. We welcomed Lakota Pipe Barer Arvol Looking Horse and his wife, Paula to Utah in September 2019, where 150 attendees participated in conversations and cultural activities.

Utah History Day
Utah History Day (UHD) has operated continuously in the state since 1980 and is the official National History Day affiliate program for Utah. UHD is currently offered through the Utah Division of State History. Students aged 9-18 compete in local, regional, state, and national competitions, where they gain an appreciation of history while developing necessary 21st century skills. Using the theme, Breaking Barriers in History, 6,800 Utah students participated in 3 District and 9 Regional competitions. 512 students advanced to the State competition, and 65 were chosen to represent Utah at the national level in June. Utah Humanities staff members participated as judges.

“We were honored to host NEH Chairman, Jon Parrish Peede, for an engaging visit with our Utah humanities community. His interest in our local humanities work signals strong and engaged leadership, as well as a warm and genuine love for the essential nature of the humanities in our modern life.”

TEDx Salt Lake City

TEDx is a grassroots initiative, created in the spirit of TED’s overall mission to research and discover “ideas worth spreading.” The Salt Lake City event aims to uncover new ideas, explore the latest research, and spark conversations. With the theme, Dynamic Harmony, this year’s lineup featured 14 presentations and engaged 1,900 attendees. We provided discussion questions for audience members to engage with each other between and after the presentations.

Pulitzer and Mellon Democracy and the Informed Citizen Initiative

This project focused on the idea that an informed citizenry is critical to democracy, and the importance of quality journalism as demonstrated by Pulitzer Prize winners and finalists. We partnered with the Salt Lake City Public Library, the Salt Lake Tribune, and Utah Public Radio for programming, and awarded program funds to 3 community organizations: Utah Center for Civic Improvement, Weber State University, and the Utah Headliners Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists.

“One of my favorite elements about [TEDxSaltLakeCity] is how much care and attention the entire community puts into helping your ideas get shared.”

— Josh Taylor, TEDxSaltLakeCity
